

AWARENESS VOLUNTEER ROLE

Summary of this role

To raise awareness of encephalitis and provide support to the communication and fundraising teams of Encephalitis International in your local area.

What's involved?

- Raise awareness of encephalitis and Encephalitis International in your local area
- Attend and support fundraisers for the organisation at their fundraising events
- Attend our events, where possible
- Build knowledge of and keep up to date with Encephalitis International activities and services
- Feedback and report details of your activities to Encephalitis International on a regular basis

Please note that the Awareness Volunteer role does not allow you to give medical or other specialist information or counselling. Dealing with press, media and PR are only permitted with a prior agreement from the Encephalitis International.

What's required?

- A good understanding of encephalitis and its implications
- A passion for spreading the word about encephalitis
- Great communication and people skills
- The willingness to attend and get to events
- A willingness to develop through training
- The confidence to chat to new people about encephalitis and Encephalitis International

Benefits to you

- Be part of a passionate and caring team who want to make a difference
- Personal development
- Recognition of your contributions to Encephalitis International
- Reasonable expenses paid
- Increased likelihood of gaining paid work from voluntary experience
- Possibility to make a difference in somebody's life

Estimated hours

Flexible, depending on individual commitments and the organisation agenda, but an estimate of up to four hours per month.

Place of volunteering

Local community and home-based.